REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

TO THE SCHOOL BOARD AND CITIZENS OF GREENFIELD:

I respectfully submit my sixth annual report as Superintendent of Schools.

SUPERVISION

In my report last year I discussed the early stages of the process of learning to read, covering the work of the first two grades. I pointed out that we make several sections in each grade in order to have each pupil placed at the reading level at which he can do his best work. This procedure is now effective in the third grade as well as in the first two grades.

Sectioning by reading levels in these grades proves to be advantageous and is in itself nothing particularly new. As a given child shows readiness for the next succeeding reading level or stage, he is advanced sometimes with the same group and sometimes into the next group ahead; and of course slower learning pupils are sometimes outstripped by the others in a group and join the next group that comes along into that stage. Each child is thus enabled to progress according to his own ability and is not forced to take the pace of faster or slower pupils.

It may prove to be more satisfactory, after some further experience with this plan, to designate pupils below the fourth grade according to reading levels instead of classifying them as grade one, grade two, or grade three; and promote from level to level at such times during the year as the children acquire mastery of the reading level in which they have been placed. Pupils would then be promoted into the fourth grade when they were ready to enter upon the study of the content subjects that usually begin in the fourth grade, and only when the pupil is ready to do so with assurance of success, whether the time required to attain such mastery has been three years or four.

Reasonable mastery of the fundamental techniques of reading is essential to success throughout the remaining school years, and to permit a child to advance before mastery is attained is to give him a handicap that may later prove disastrous, not only to his success in the content subjects, but to development of his personality or individuality.

In all our plans and procedures we must think in terms of the individual child and remember that he grows as a whole.

This is true not only of his years in the primary grades but throughout his school life. All the time that a child is increasing in skill and in understanding, he is also forming attitudes and ideals and interests that will contribute more to the development of his personality than all of the subject matter he may be able to absorb and retain. The facts a child learns slip away quickly, but the thinking habits he acquires and the attitudes and ideals formed are apt to be permanent.

The type of report card that we had developed in the previous two years for first and second grades is now adapted to the third grade as well. By this means we are trying to give the parent definite information as to the child's growth in reading and to point out the things that may be preventing more rapid growth. We believe this is more helpful to the parents and consequently to the child than the type of report card that merely states the child is "good," "fair," or "poor," because it is more constructive and less critical of failures and establishes a better basis for helpful conference between the parent and the teacher.

After having given special emphasis to the reading program in the primary grades for a period of three years, it is time there should appear some tangible evidence of improvement in reading ability of the pupils who have had this advantage, as compared with those who have not had so much. Such evidence does appear in the results of the Stanford and Metropolitan Achievement Tests in Reading, which were given to grades three to eight in October and to grade two in January; the average reading level shown by these tests is 8 months below standard in grade eight, the same in grade seven, two months below in grade six, one month above in grade five, just at standard in grade four, two months above in grade three, and six months above in grade two. Such evidence of the effectiveness of our reading program is gratifying, and especially so when we consider the large size of the grades in the Primary room during all of this three-year period. From the same evidence it would appear that we could well provide more remedial reading work for some of the pupils in the upper grades.

BUDGET

The budget submitted for the year 1940-1941 differs only in a few minor details from the estimates submitted a year ago. Our estimate of the requirements for high school tuition is $175 less than last year and we are omitting the item of "New Equipment." The per capita tax shows a sixteen dollar increase due to the larger number of pupils in school. We do not anticipate having a cash balance at the close of this fiscal year large enough to warrant using any to reduce the assessment required. The assessment required to balance the School Board's budget this year is $5,573 which is $38 less than the assessment called for last year. We believe the amounts indicated under each item are the lowest with which we can expect to maintain the schools at the present standard of excellence and efficiency.

Respectfully submitted,

VERNON S. AMES
